

Association of Canadian Archivists
Association canadienne
des archivistes

email aca@archivists.ca www.archivists.ca

Call for Student Proposals
ACA Conference 2017
“Archives, disrupted”
New Ideas, New Voices: The Student Session
Ottawa, ON
June 7 – 10, 2017

Are you an archival studies student with an idea that you want to share with the archival community? Are you researching a paper and would like to take it to the next stage? Are you honing your public speaking skills, and looking for ways to enhance your CV? The ACA 2017 Program Team wants to hear from you! Proposals are now being accepted for the ACA Conference’s annual student session. Submissions relating to the conference theme “Archives, disrupted” are encouraged, although proposals on other archival topics will also be considered. For more information about the conference theme, visit the ACA conference website at <http://www.archivists.ca/content/program>.

All full-time students who are presently enrolled in, or will graduate from, a Masters program in Canadian archival studies in the 2016-2017 academic year are eligible to apply. The student session, “New Ideas, New Voices,” will be held on Saturday June 10th at 10:30am. For the session, the Program Team will select three student papers (15 to 20 minutes each), each by a student from a different institution. Thanks to the Association of Canadian Archivists Foundation (ACAF), those selected participants who do not have full-time employment will receive a bursary (administered through their school), which covers the cost of the registration fees as well as some assistance for the travel and accommodation expenses.

Please use this URL for your submission:

<http://archivists.ca/content/student-paper-proposal>

The deadline for submissions is January 13, 2017.

Questions should be sent to April Miller, Chair, ACA 2017 Program Team, via email:

archivist_april@yahoo.com